Museum service	Project	Amount awarded
Barking & Dagenham Museum Service and Enfield Museum Service	Value for Money and Benchmarking. This joint project will analyse cost issues across a full range of museum functions for each service. The work will result in recommendations and benchmarks for key areas of museum costs and will explore where expenditure might be reduced via shared services. The report on this project will have important potential	£10,500
Brent Museum and Museum of Croydon	for shared learning with other museum services. Quality Volunteer offer – joint training programme. This project, to develop a shared training programme for front of house volunteers, arises from needs identified from both services' participation with the British Museum in the Renaissance National/Regional Loans scheme. A key output will be a methodology/tool kit which shows other London museums how a partnership with a national institution can be used to deliver high quality, cost effective volunteer training.	£8,853
Enfield Library and Museum Service	Alternative delivery models: Options appraisal. This project will explore options for alternative models of delivery for Enfield's Museums Service and make recommendations for its future. The research will feed into a long term service review of Library/Museum provision already begun by Council and will examine potential for future commissioning by third sector organisations.	£7000
Bruce Castle Museum (Haringey Culture, Libraries and Learning)	Trust status: Skills development programme. This project will strengthen the competencies of museum staff as Haringey Culture, learning and Libraries department moves towards trust status. A training needs analysis will identify the necessary training sessions. Staff will gain new skills to help them to demonstrate financial competence and realise potential of the museum for income generation. Training sessions will be opened out to other museum services where possible.	£3,500
Southwark Museum Service	Value for Money and service modelling. Southwark Museum Service will deliver a report into future service options.	£5,800
